Rising Above Addiction Requires Comprehensive Support

Drug Abuse Research & Treatment (DART)

Since 1971, the Drug Abuse Research and Treatment Program (DART) has treated individuals addicted to opiate drugs using a variety of rehabilitating services, and through linkages with other human services providers.

The mission of DART is to offer comprehensive and integrated services to meet the needs of patients that are opiate dependent. Patients are welcomed into an environment where they are treated with dignity and respect and encouraged to work towards recognition and insight into their own addiction as a lifelong process.

The DART treatment team consists of a medical director, nursing, counseling, and administrative staff who specialize in treating individuals addicted to opiates.

TAKE ACTION.
